CUHK Jockey Club Institute of Ageing Symposium on Application of Digital Health in Community Centres: The First Step in a Stepped Care Approach to Primary Care of Older People

Preliminary Programme

Integrated Care of Older People: Evidence-Based Guidelines, Assessment Instruments, and Pilot Studies

Introducing the WHO mAge Guide-technology in the Service of Primary Care

Dr. Islene Araujo de Carvalho
Department of Ageing and Life Course, World Health Organization

Primary Care Needs of Older People in The Community: A Hong Kong Solution

Interface between District Health Centre and NGO Community Centres in Providing Primary Care for Older People

Use of Technology in Supporting Older People in the Community

Application of Technology in Meeting Unmet Needs of Older People Living in the Community

The Community Primary Care Programme Development & Operation: Caring for Older People with Multiple Chronic Conditions in Primary Care

Community NGO Based Frailty Prevention Programme

Panel Discussion
Should We and Can We Implement Integrated Care of Older People in Hong Kong?

D 12 December 2019 (Thursday)
T 10:00 - 17:00

Lecture Theatre 2, G/F, Yasumoto International Academic Park, The Chinese University of Hong Kong

Registration

https://loasymposium.eventbrite.hk

CME/CNE Accreditation will be applied from relevant colleges and associations in Hong Kong. Registered participants will be entitled to receive CME/CNE credits. Details will be announced in due course.

Exhibition

In conjunction with the conference, there will also be exhibition boards display outside the conference venue to introduce the themes in the conference.

Enquiry

Ms. Clara Cheng
Tel: 3943 5304  Fax: 3942 0939
Email: loasymposium@cuhk.edu.hk